America's 250th Anniversary in Boston

America celebrates 250 years of independence in 2026! And there's no better place to honor that history than Boston - the birthplace of the American Revolution. From reenactments to citywide celebrations, Massachusetts will be alive with events commemorating this historic milestone throughout 2025 and 2026.

Visit meetboston.com/america-250 for your guide to experiencing it all!

Meet BOSTON

Welcome to Boston, the capital of Massachusetts, a city hailed for its culture, history, cuisine, sports, outdoor beauty, and so much more!

While you are here, be sure to explore our rich and diverse mosaic of communities and neighborhoods, filled with music, murals, and amazing foods from every part of the world. Visit our stunning coastline and travel our colonial cobbled streets, where Revolutionary legends once held court.

Boston is called America's Walking City for good reason; it is so easy to explore the city by foot, on wheels, or by bike. From the iconic Freedom Trail to our new Innovation Trail, you'll be amazed and entertained along the way.

Sports fans, make your way to TD Garden to catch the Celtics or Bruins, and cheer on the Red Sox at Fenway Park. And just down the road is Gillette Stadium in Foxborough, home of the Patriots and Revolution.

We hope you enjoy your time in Boston and thank you for supporting our local businesses, sampling our home grown products, and experiencing our storied heritage.

Maura Healey
Governor of Massachusetts

Welcome to Boston—we're excited for you to get to know our city!

Boston isn't just the birthplace of American democracy, we're home to America's first public school, public park, public library, and subway system. This is the city where, for nearly 400 years, we've redefined what it means to prioritize the public good—where innovation and tradition share the same block. From liberty and education to green spaces and transportation, we've never stopped striving to make life better for everyone who spends time in this place that we love.

Today, that mission still burns as bright as the lanterns in the Old North Church 250 years ago, alerting the colonists that the British were coming—"one if by land, two if by sea." So, whether you're exploring our museums and revolutionary sites, enjoying a show at our performing arts centers, wandering our parks, or taking in the unique character of neighborhoods, thank you for being a part of our story.

We hope you'll feel at home for however long you're here.

A DAY IN BOSTON

Historical

Boston is a treasure trove of historical landmarks, sites and museums. Below are just a few ideas on how to spend your day in Boston.

WHERE TO START The John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum, dedicated to the memory of our nation's 35th president, is located just a few subway stops from downtown Boston. Take the Red Line to JFK/UMass station. Adjacent to the library, you can also visit the Edward M. Kennedy Institute for the United States Senate for in-depth information about the Senate or the Commonwealth Museum to learn about the state's rich civic history and heritage.

IN THE AFTERNOON Head back into downtown Boston by taking the Red Line inbound to Park Street and stop by our Visitor Information Center on Tremont Street for information on walking tours, including the Black Heritage Trail and The Freedom Trail (see page 22), or experience the nearby Museum of African American History, New England's largest museum dedicated to preserving, interpreting and celebrating the indispensable role of African Americans throughout U.S. history. Two of the museum's sites, the African Meeting House and Abiel Smith School on Beacon Hill, were built in the early 1800s and are National Historic Landmarks. To visit the museum, walk up Park Street toward the State House to Beacon Street. Turn left onto Beacon and right onto Joy Street.

A short walk away, the Old State House and Old South Meeting House tell the story of the role the buildings and Boston played in the American Revolution. The museums are located along The Freedom Trail on Washington Street.

AFTER DARK Visit Boston's North End for homemade pasta, fresh-baked breads, cannoli and cappuccino and take in an area rich in Italian history. Colonial-era sites are located throughout the city's oldest residential neighborhood including Paul Revere's House, the Old North Church and Copp's Hill Burying Ground.

A DAY IN BOSTON

Cultural Enthusiasts

Boston is a haven for cultural enthusiasts, pulsating with the creative energy of its diverse people and communities. We invite you to explore.

WHERE TO START Start your day in the Fenway Cultural District, visiting the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston and the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum. The former hosts a collection of art and artifacts ranging from the ancient world to the present; the sprawling Art of the Americas wing is among the MFA's many notable draws. The Gardner Museum is a unique gem - a replica of a Venetian palace, home to a signature courtyard and the personal collection of Isabella Stewart Gardner. The Gardner is well known for an infamous art heist and its treasures span centuries.

The Fenway area includes colleges that focus on interdisciplinary modes of performing arts. Visitors can experience myriad musical genres performed by student savants at New England Conservatory and the Boston Conservatory at Berklee.

IN THE AFTERNOON Rent a Bluebike and experience Boston's public bike share program. It's easy to grab a bike and convenient to drop it off at any station when you're done. From the Fens, it's a quick ride to Nubian Square, the cultural epicenter of Roxbury, teeming with craft shops, small businesses and vibrant public art. See what's on at Hibernian Hall, shop at Black Market Nubian, and immerse in amazing murals created by the Nubian Square Public Arts Initiative. Roxbury hosts some of the city's most impressive cultural festivals, including the Caribbean Carnival and Roxbury Film Festival.

Take your Bluebike into the SOWA District of Boston's South End, a concentrated area of artist galleries. SOWA hosts an open market on Sundays where the artists' wares are on display.

AFTER DARK The South End features jazz clubs and restaurants offering mellow beats to complement delicious food. After dinner, visit the Boston Center for the Arts to experience contemporary art exhibitions and award-winning theater and dance performances.

Public Art in Boston

Public art in Boston is immersive and thought-provoking. From Roxbury to Seaport, our neighborhoods are teeming with dynamic art ready to be discovered.

The Embrace memorial on the Boston Common provides a space for conversation, education and reflection on the racial and economic justice ideals of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott King, and serves as a permanent monument to the Kings' time in Boston.

Roxbury is a lab for artistic innovation, a beacon of boundless creativity; the neighborhood is both a canvas for that creativity and an incubator of it. Here you can find incredible murals by local artists telling neighborhood stories, including Roxbury Love Story by ProBlak, which memorializes the love story of Martin Luther King, Jr. and his wife, Coretta.

The Underground at Ink Block is a transformed 8-acre urban park and cultural attraction that connects South Boston and the South End. This area offers a place for the community to gather and experience thought-provoking murals by local artists Marka 27, ProBlak, HOXXOH, Silvia Lopez Chavez and more.

The vibrant statues around the Seaport District were created by Spanish contemporary artist Okuda San Miguel. Each tells a story of life, coexistence and environment. The Seaport is also home to numerous art installations including Frank Stella's reproduction of Damascus Gate (Stretch Variation I), which visually commemorates the neighborhood's commitment to the arts. For a list of all public art, visit bostonseaport.xyz.

The Greenway is a network of parks and green space that curves around Boston neighborhoods. Permanent and rotating exhibits can be found throughout the year, from vibrantly lit pieces featuring Chinatown's history to interactive sculptures and fountains to Jeffrey Gibson's "your spirit whispering in my ear" mural on Dewey Square.

Public spaces throughout Northeastern University were transformed into a platform for students and artists to reflect the university's global, experiential mission. Stroll the campus in the Fenway/Kenmore neighborhood and be inspired by breathtaking murals created by international artists.

Artists tell the stories of their communities through murals, and the City of Boston created the Boston Mural Map to celebrate these diverse cultural stories across the neighborhoods. To learn more, visit boston.gov/departments/arts-and-culture/boston-mural-map.

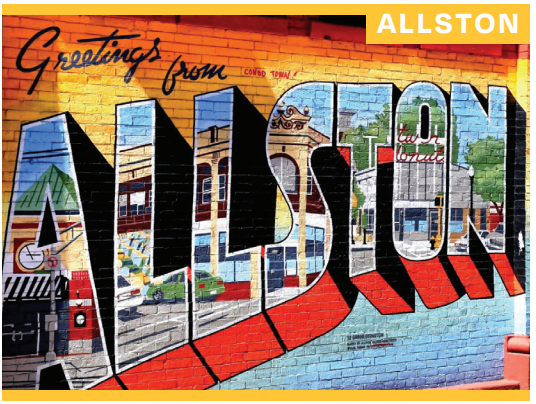
BOSTON NEIGHBORHOODS

Cross cultural celebrations, ethnic culinary offerings, diverse festivals and a multitude of storefronts and local businesses collectively create an authentic Boston experience. We invite you to explore all the city has to offer.



ALLSTON

Allston features diverse dining options, fabulous music clubs, and beautiful street art. Accessible via the Green Line, Allston is home to thousands of college students, which makes it the perfect location for a thriving music scene. Brighton Music Hall and Paradise Rock Club are both iconic venues to see a show. Allston is also a haven for discerning palates, with myriad Asian and Indian restaurants inviting patrons to dine from various corners of the globe.

The Back Bay centers around bustling Copley Square, home to Trinity Church, the Boston Public Library, cultural festivals and farmers markets. Visit Newbury Street, where shoppers can wander art galleries and designer boutiques and enjoy sidewalk cafes. Beautiful brownstones line the neighborhood's residential streets and visitors are encouraged to stroll Commonwealth Avenue to view monuments honoring many of Boston's greatest citizens.

Boston's smallest neighborhood, Bay Village is a residential community consisting of 19th-century brick houses and narrow gas-lit streets interspersed with quaint parks, making for a pedestrian-friendly environment. Bay Village was the birthplace of the author Edgar Allan Poe (1809) and the location of the tragic fire at the Cocoanut Grove nightclub in 1942.

BACK BAY

BAY VILLAGE

Beacon Hill is a charming half-square-mile neighborhood replete with Federalist Era architecture and topped by the gleaming gold dome of the State House. The neighborhood features elegant town houses, narrow streets with brick sidewalks and gas lamps, local boutiques and popular restaurants. Beacon Hill is home to the Museum of African American History and many historical landmarks including the African Meeting House and Abiel Smith School on the Black Heritage Trail.

Visit Brighton and explore the vibrant commercial and cultural areas of Brighton Center and Oak Square. The neighborhood is very pedestrian friendly; stroll through streets lined with historic homes and Boston's signature triple-deckers. Pop into fun restaurants and pubs or recharge at one of many local cafes. The Brighton Common Farmers Market is one of the best in Boston.

Charlestown has become a haven for young professionals, who mingle with first, second and third generation immigrant families to create a demographically mixed neighborhood. Alongside brick town houses and signature triple-deckers, popular bars and restaurants now make Charlestown a destination for visitors and residents alike. It's home to important landmarks including the USS Constitution or "Old Ironsides," the Bunker Hill Monument and the Charlestown Navy Yard.

BRIGHTON

CHARLESTOWN

Renowned for its concentration of restaurants, Chinatown's converted historic theaters now serve up decadent dim sum feasts. Beyond the neighborhood's elaborately decorated gate, stroll the alleys for herbal shops and Asian markets stocked with vegetables and spices. During the Chinese New Year and August Moon Festivals, the streets are filled with dancing lions and traditional music. Don't miss the Chinatown Park area of the Rose Kennedy Greenway, where installations of public art pay tribute to Chinese cultural icons.

Dorchester is Boston's largest neighborhood, with eclectic enclaves inviting visitors to explore amazing history, culture and restaurants, including an exceptional Caribbean culinary scene. In Upham's Corner, tour one of the few 19th-century business districts that is still intact, with the beautifully restored Strand Theatre offering a grand welcome. Nearby Fields Corner has been designated as the Little Saigon Cultural District, where the best Vietnamese food in the city awaits alongside spectacular street murals. The wellness corridor of Four Corners is a short distance away, as is Ashmont, Adams Village and Lower Mills. Dorchester is bursting with hyperlocal authentic experiences.

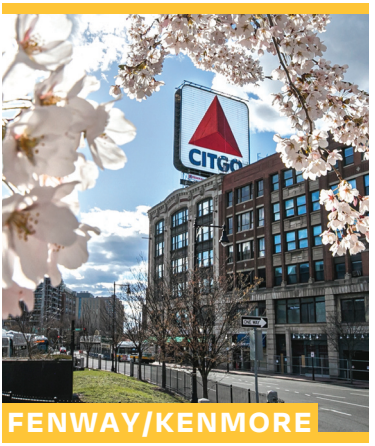
Visitors to Downtown can discover some of the city's oldest landmarks along the historic Freedom Trail, browse the diverse commercial offerings of Downtown Crossing, explore refurbished theaters or enjoy festivals and concerts throughout the summer at City Hall Plaza. Nearby is Faneuil Hall Marketplace, a popular destination for both locals and tourists to enjoy unique shops, restaurants and outdoor entertainment. Increasingly home to new dining options and restored hotels, Downtown Crossing has undergone a revitalization that makes it a compelling visitor destination.

EAST BOSTON

Home of Logan Airport, East Boston, or "Eastie," is essentially the gateway to Boston and beyond, where modern residential complexes stand next to renovated triple-deckers, and where visitors will find some of the best and most authentic Latin American food in New England. Like much of the city, East Boston has become a melting pot of cultural exchange; Italian Americans settled the area primarily in the late 19th century and the more recent influx of residents from Central and South America has made Eastie a cosmopolitan hub. The beautiful parks along the waterfront afford scintillating views of the Boston skyline. From outdoor recreation to delicious food and a refreshing cidery, East Boston offers an array of assets that visitors will enjoy.

While Fenway/Kenmore may be best known as the home of Fenway Park, it is also one of Boston's academic and cultural hubs. Nearly a dozen of the 100 colleges and universities located in Greater Boston can be found here, giving the neighborhood an unmistakably energetic feel. Enter the Fenway Cultural District to find the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, Museum of Fine Arts and Symphony Hall. The area around the restored 401 Park complex, which is home to Time Out Market, now teems with trendy restaurants and craft beer purveyors.

A suburban neighborhood with all the amenities of a city, Hyde Park is also noted as the training ground for the 54th Massachusetts Infantry Regiment, made famous in the movie Glory. Area attractions include the Stony Brook Reservation, with its miles of trails, athletic fields, ice skating rink and swimming pool, a Donald Ross-designed golf course, candlepin bowling and an array of independent shops, eclectic galleries and restaurants of varied cuisines.



FENWAY/KENMORE

HYDE PARK

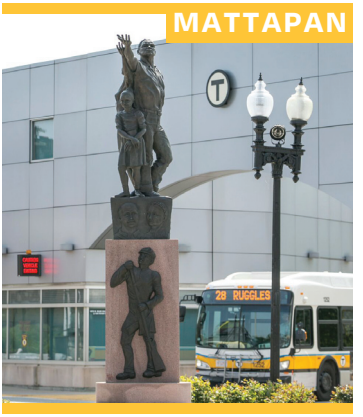
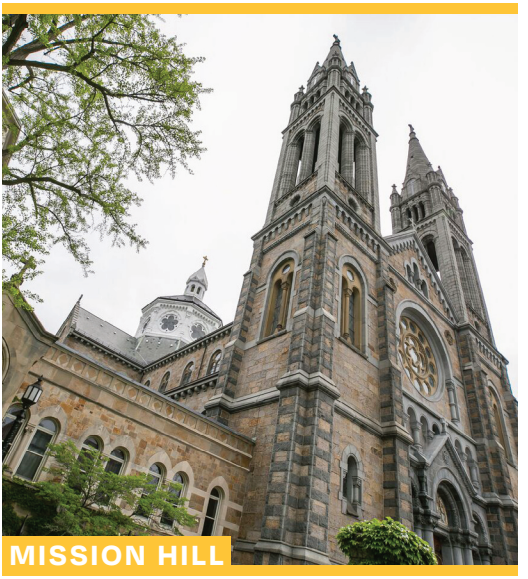
MATTAPAN



Jamaica Plain teems with natural assets, rich culture, fabulous cuisine and an array of eclectic small businesses. Serene settings such as Jamaica Pond and the Arnold Arboretum invite relaxation, while the bustling activity along Centre Street and Egelston Square and in Boston's Latin Quarter creates an authentic destination experience. From farmers markets to spectacular street murals, and of course the world-renowned Sam Adams Brewery, Jamaica Plain offers it all.

Mattapan is home to significant African American and Caribbean communities, including the largest Haitian community in Massachusetts. Mattapan Square serves as the commercial center with restaurants, retail stores and services operators. On a sunny day, Blue Hill Avenue bustles with activity. Mattapan features creative public art and street murals, vibrant green space, farmers markets, Mass Audubon's Boston Nature Center and Wildlife Sanctuary, and the Clark-Cooper Community Garden.

While Mission Hill is one of the smallest neighborhoods (¾ square mile), it is one of the hippest places to live, work and play. Residents and residences are equally mixed and diverse, coexisting with institutional neighbors such as universities, hospitals, museums and churches. Open space is precious, but the views from the top of the Hill are even more so, basking below the beautiful Basilica and Shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, a masterpiece of 19th century Romanesque architecture in Boston.



MISSION HILL

With dozens of eateries serving homemade pasta, fresh-baked breads, cannoli and cappuccino, the North End is infused with the flavor of the Old World and its rich Italian history. Colonial-era sites are located throughout the neighborhood, including Paul Revere's House, Old North Church and Copp's Hill Burying Ground. The North End comes alive in the summer with feasts, festivals and processions.

Considered a garden suburb, Roslindale is part of Boston's Emerald Necklace and shares the Arnold Arboretum with neighboring Jamaica Plain. The area is well served by public transit; just 15 minutes outbound on the Needham commuter rail brings you to Roslindale Village, a vibrant epicenter of rich culture, numerous restaurants and cafes, small businesses and fun festivals. From farmers markets to Open Studios, events in Roslindale showcase the unique character of that community.

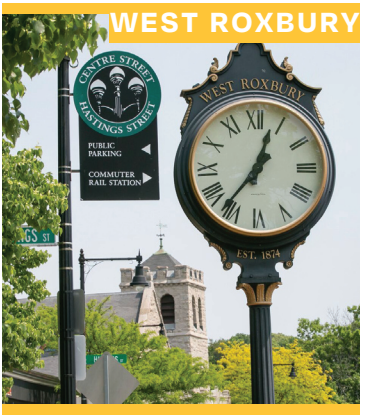
Visit Roxbury and explore Franklin Park Zoo to the south or head north into Roxbury's commercial center, Nubian Square, featuring retail stores and restaurants, arts and cultural facilities, and public art. The creative energy in Roxbury is incubated by spaces such as Black Market Nubian and the Nubian Square Public Art Initiative. In Lower Roxbury, Hibernian Hall offers a diverse lineup of programming, while the Roxbury Innovation Center inspires entrepreneurial energies. In the Grove Hall neighborhood, history and culture come to life with some of the city's best Caribbean restaurants alongside landmarks of African American history.

The emergent Seaport District is the fastest growing and newest neighborhood in Boston. Booming with restaurants, museums, artist galleries and shops, it is also home to the massive mixed-use complex One Seaport and the Thomas M. Menino Convention and Exhibition Center. The Seaport has recently added close to 2,000 new hotel rooms and offers some of the best breweries and entertainment venues in the city, from concert pavilions to experiential outdoor areas, and a vivacious club scene.

Long a predominantly Irish working-class neighborhood, South Boston is now a highly desirable residential neighborhood due to its inherent amenities: Castle Island, public beaches, Dorchester Heights, great pubs and restaurants and, of course, the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

The South End is a vibrant urban center with eclectic art studios, experimental theaters, independent boutiques and some of the best restaurants in Boston. Streets are lined with brick bow-front town houses, most of which were built in the mid-1800s, and many of the homes have hidden gardens. Explore on foot to discover the many treasures of this neighborhood, including pocket parks, a thriving arts community and a rich jazz history.

The West End is re-emerging as a mixed-use commercial and residential neighborhood. Area landmarks include Bulfinch Triangle Historic District, Massachusetts General Hospital and TD Garden, New England's premier sports and entertainment facility. Recent developments include The Hub on Causeway, an expansion to the TD Garden complex to add residential space, restaurants, retail and entertainment venues. New hotels are also opening and the revitalization of Lovejoy Wharf is a major draw.



West Roxbury has a neighborhood business district that runs from Centre Street to Spring Street and reveals the essence of the area - an eclectic mix of independently-owned shops and restaurants, ethnic markets and fun pubs. Relax within the area's tranquil green space or stop by the beautiful West Roxbury branch of the Boston Public Library. Don't miss the meandering trails running through the Brook Farm Historic Site, originally founded in the 1840s and inspired by the Transcendentalist Movement.

BOSTON NEIGHBORS

Across the Charles River lies the city of Somerville, a mix of students, young professionals and a significant artist community amidst blue-collar and immigrant families. While the city's squares all provide commercial and entertainment venues, the difference in character ranges from the vibrant nightlife, music and theaters of Davis Square to the redeveloped retail and public spaces of Assembly Square.

Cross the Mystic River and you enter Everett, home to Encore Boston Harbor, Boston's first five-star urban gaming resort. You'll find a thriving craft beer scene here, with innovative breweries located in the area. Nearby Chelsea, the smallest city in the Commonwealth, maintains eight National Register properties worth exploring.

Although primarily urban, Quincy, a southern suburb of Boston and home to two U.S. presidents, John Adams and his son, John Quincy Adams, boasts beaches, golf courses and the Blue Hills Reservation for recreational activities. Recent developments include a revitalized downtown and new hotels and residential and retail space.

Revere borders Chelsea and East Boston. Revere is home to the first public beach in the U.S., and today the 3-mile stretch of shoreline is a major attraction and recreational outlet. Don't miss the annual Revere Beach International Sand Sculpting Festival in July.
